Master of Nursing
Emergency Nursing Track

Occasional Student Enrollment (2026-2027)

The Master of Nursing (MNurs) Programme offers various study tracks in advancing nurses' career in different nursing specialties. The Emergency Nursing Track is designed to provide registered nurses with high-quality training at master level in the area of Emergency Nursing.

Registered Nurses are welcome to take the following course and workshop as Occasional Students

NURS8278 Disaster and Emergency Management

This course examines the disaster cycle including mitigation, preparedness, response and recovery and its implications for advanced emergency nursing practice. This course will also explore the range of nursing roles in disaster and humanitarian relief, and examine the systematic approach in preventing and managing complex disasters.

Tentative Schedule
Semester 2A: January 19 to April 27, 2026
